About Moonshot CVE

Moonshot CVE is a London-based social enterprise specialising in countering violent extremism (CVE), misinformation, and other public safety issues. We use data-proven techniques to respond to violent extremism effectively. Our work ranges from software development and digital capacity-building to leading global counter-messaging campaigns.

About the role

We are looking for subject matter experts on violent extremism in Albania, with fluency in Albanian.

The role will include the following responsibilities:

- Identification and analysis of violent extremist content/engagement via social media platforms in Albania.
- Research on key grievances and vulnerabilities among at-risk individuals.
- Research on key narratives used by violent extremist groups to recruit individuals.
- Translation from English to Albanian or Albanian to English as required.

The consultant will work remotely.

Requirements

- Experience in open source research on social media platforms and other platforms.
- Proven knowledge of violent extremism in Albania; regional knowledge an asset.
- Fluency in Albanian and English.
- Strong organizational skills, detail oriented, and ability to work to tight deadlines.
